An East Indian prince, hia Highness, Maharsjah Takht Singh, of Jomlhpore, having died on the 18th of January list, at the age of 52, "after n brilliant reign of 28 years," his funeral solemnities were immediately proceeded with. Early in the morning of a day soon after his decease, his body, arrayed in the royal robes of brocaded cloth, was borne in a sedsn chair to the funeral pile. It was further enveloped at the pile in coatly Cashmere shawls. The value of the jewelry alone upon the corpse is stated at 375,000. The pile was of sandal wood, intermixed with combustibles, and upon being lighted, the flames shot up with fleree intensity. The heat was so extreme that no one could approach the burning mass. In two hours the hody and the weed were reduced to ashes. Two days were allowed for the remains to coal, and the ashes were thea, with much pomp, carried back to the palace, thence to be sent in lots to the "Holy Places," will largesses to the lirahains and other religions mendicants. He died in London in 1867, Aged thirty-three years, and now lies buried at the home of his childhood in Maine. He was not a hard drinker. Ho was not a man of strong appetites. It was the nights wasted in convividity which his system needed for sleep that sent him to his grave forty-tive years before his time. For mon of his profession and character, for all editors, literary mea and artists, there is only one safety, teetotalism. He should have taken the advice of a stage driver on the plains, to whom he offered some whiskey, and I commend it strongly to the countless hosts who drew back the whip and then lightly tapped Mullane's back. The Warden, Ho did not wince, but seemed to count with the Warden as the Sheriff swing the cat. After he had received the teuth lash he chuckled. The pins were taken frem the iron bambs and he was released. He picked up his cont, threw it over his shoulders, and went into the prison. Clark, a red-haired young man,

The regeneration of the internal parts was noteompleted. In the American Naturalist, Professor Professor Aughey does not undertake to explain all the purposes served by the rattle, but he fully agrees with Mr. F. W. Putnam in rejecting this mimetic theory. Does the rattle, then, serve any useful purpose? In reply to this question, the author tells us what he him-Concerning the mon you call your friend, tell me, will be weep with you in the house of distress? Anghey had a similar experience the following year, and from these facts he is disposed to think that the purpose served by the rattle is to call the sexes together. Another purpose may he to paralyze its victims with fright, and to inspire its antural penemics with terror. As an illustration of the use of the rattle for the latter purpose, the author says that, as he followed librough the woods of Dakota county, Nebraska, a Baltimore or iole, he heard and at once saw the bird as it was paralyzed with fear, and ready to fall a prey to the sersaw the bird as it was parelyzed with fear, and ready to fall a prey to the serpent. About Quacks.

John Smith is clear-headed about his business, he knows about polities and religion, he is a capital school-commit-religion, he is a capital school-committee man, but he is n perfect idot in everything that concerns his health. The mock-nuction man can't humbug him, but he will swallow the biggest kind of tomfoolery in the shape of a quack medicine.

To illustrate this I will tell you a little story. Nincteen years ago, flading myself very tired, as the warm weather came on, I invited my wife to take a drive through Canada. With our beautiful mares Katy and Jenny we crossed on a ferry-boat at the month of the Niagara River, and at the end of three weeks found ourselves at Ottawa, not then the beautiful eapital of the Dominien, but even then once of the most picture sque and interesting towns in the world. We attend these and status while leave a status while he was unspectively and interesting towns in the world. We attend these and status while in the public street. The country. The brute's name is Verrazano Simpson, and he is an old if not respectable citizen of the place. He had been alusing his wife, and otherwise misical had been alusing his wife, and otherwise misical having land daughter, and otherwise misical having limself for a year or more, but the long chapter of suffering was private. The other day he was ln a buggy and met his wife on the street. He had a long whip lu his hand, and getting out of the buggy he commenced laying the whip vigorously over Mrs.

Simpson's shoulders. She raised her arm to prolect her face, but did not not then the beautiful capital of the Dominien, but even then once of the most picture sque and interesting towns in the world. We attend the street idot in the country. The brute's name he country. We stayed there a number of days, making delightful little trips in the neighborhood. One evening at the hotel we become acquainted with an intelligent Scotchman and his wife, and during our chat it happened to come out intelligent Scotchman and his wife, and during our chat it happened to come out that I was a medical man, whereupon the lady told me the most stunning fact about a doctor that I have ever heard.

She said:
"There is a traveling physician here at the house just now who is getting quite a great reputation. He is the most extraordinary dactor you ever heard of. He husn't washed his hands the way. But she would do neither to necommodate him.

At length he stopped, probably from exhaustion—such a brute could not have been aslauned—and got into his buggy to drive off. Mrs. Simpson usked very coolly: "Are you tired out?"
He got down again and resumed the vife whitening in order that himselves. the thouse just now who is getting quite a great reputation. He is the most extraordinary doctor you ever heard of. He hasn't washed his hands in twenty years, and such hands you never saw. They are covered all over with an incrustation as thick as a heavy overcont cloth. He stirs all of his medicines with those hands, and declares that the virtue of his medicines depend upon the stirring with his hands, and upon his not washing them. He says that if he should wash them they would lose their power. The thumh of his right hand he never bends, and I really believe the ernst on that thumb is at least a quarter of an inch thick. It is with that thumb he stirs the medicines for leaving off might not be misconstructed, either by his wife or the bystanders, or the equally unfeeling thorse, which did not get frightened and run off like a decent beast would have down the horse heart. At length the self-branded coward left his lease work and drove away as rapidly as possible. The woman steod still and to be away as rapidly as possible. The woman erossed the street to an establishment kept by a friend and arranged her hair. Sho then walked up the street, and again met her brutal life-partner. She said to him: "Well, are you through, or do you want more?" He said: "No niore, no more, we've had leave the reputation of the street, and again and the round of the said: "No niore, no more, we've had leave the reputation of the street has the said to him: "Well, are you the said: "No niore, no more, we've had the most extraordinary doctors of the provided way. It is with that thumb he stirs the medicines for the most difficult cases. Now, doctor," continued this highly intelligent lady, "do you really think there possibly can he anything in it?"

Sought an interview with this wonderful doctor. He showed me his hands, and explained things. He added one piece of information—viz., that the right thumk had not been washed in twenty-seven years, while the remainder of the hands had not been washed in twenty-twoyears. Learefully examined his hands, and believed his statements in regard to the years. I told him that I thought his hands would justify the addition of several years. ACCIDENT.—Two ladies were riding through Commercial street, Weymouth Landing, last Tuesday morning, in a buggy belonging to Mr. Jas. 11. Clapp, of East Weymouth, and when near the turn at the corner of West interface with them, so dear, so bright, so gluiously fair. at the corner of Washington street, in an endeavor to avoid a collision with an ap-proaching team, one of the wheels of the broaching team, one of the vinces of the buggy gave way, and one of the laffes, a sister of Mr. Clapp, sustained a fracture of the leg by being thrown from the car-riage. The other lady, Mrs. Jacob N. B.ttes, with a child, had her shoulder fractured, and was carried home to East Weymouth, where Dr. Tirrell attended her, but finding the injury of a very seri-ous nature, a messenger was sent for Dr. Fifield, of Dorchester, to assist Dr. Tir-Fineld, of Dorchester, to assist Dr. 11r-rell in the case. Miss Clapp was carried to the residence of Mr. Ashford Baker, and Dr. Tinkham being absent, Dr. For-saith was called and adjusted the fracture. The horse ran up Washington street for a short distance, when he was stopped. The buggy was reduced to a wreck.

may be dressed in the same way, and will be found very nice.

New WAY TO COOK EOOS.—We see in a western exchange a hint in regard to cocking eggs, which we think well worthy of being more extensively known.

The difficulty is, that eggs cooked sufficiently to fix the yolk, are, ao far as the white is concerned, almost indigestible. To better this, do not boil your eggs over the fire st all, but put them into water near the boiling paint and let them stay there ten or fifteen minutes, adding hot water enough to keep the temperature uniform. Do this, and both white and yolk will be digestible.

Tomyto Sour.—In one gallon of water put two and n half pounds of lamb, boiling it until the water is reduced to one-balf the quantity and the meat is in shreds; strain the liquor, put in two quarts of skinned tomntoes, stirring very often and well, that they may dissolve, and boil half an hour; again strain, add a table-spoonful of butter, and if the tomntages are very seid, about half a table-spoonful of white sugar. In winter use tomatoes that have been canned with very little cooking, and pre nearly of lonf-sugar with the oil of orange, by rubbing in them is much as you can readily from the rind of four oranges. Roll as many oranges as yan design to use, squeeze the juice, allowing eight to one quart of water. Throw the skins into half n piat of water as you squeeze thom, let them stand n short time, press them a little, and add this water to the other juice. The very highest-flavored oranges should be selected, and if not found sour enough to impart an agree-able acid, lemon juice may be added, with the cantion that it must not be used freely enough to impair the distinct flavor of theorange, which is meant to predominate. The oil should only be ghtly rabbed from the oranges. Allow half a pound of sagar to the quart of orangeade, but in this matter consult, if possible, the taste of some experienced dessert-maker. With all care to give un exuct recipe, the proportions of bath makes an excellent sonp. The proportions are, two three-pannel lobsters, three onnes of butter, two quarts of broth, and eight onnes of bread. Boil obsters as we directed in a preceding number, and after having removed the dark bluish vein and the stomach, ent the head off about bulf an inch back of the eyes; just the flesh of the tail aside, and pound the rest well—shell, small and large claws, and all that is in the body shell. Bronchitis is an inflammation of the air-tubes in the chest, and is accompanied by a cough. Probably it will appear but rurely, except as an accompaniment of "entury," of which it is a simple extension. Sometimes, when there is a whoreign and rattlier there is a whoreign and rattlier. there is a wheezing and rattling, the disease is lostily declared to be roup, whereas the peculiar discharge at the beak marks the latter disease. Tigers and Cobras.

Two papers-one the official report of Mr. Grant Dnff, and the other, read a few plays ago by Capt. Rogers, before the London Saciety of Arts—give figures touching the loss of life in India through the assaults of wild beasts and venomous anakes, that are positively startling. It appears from these au-thorities that in 1871, the total number of deaths caused by these creatures was no less than 18,078. The record in 1869 was 14,529, so that in spite of the de-erease in the number of noxions animals we are neenstoned to observe with the approach and contact of civilized man, the list of victims was lengthened durothers, before he sucenmbed. The magistrates of the various departments are constantly reporting the ravages of the tigers and panthers who destroy not only human beings but immense num-hers of extile. It appears that the in-erease of human population only brings increased mortality from this cause, the wild heasts losing no whit of their boldness with the advance of man, but rather acquiring fresh audacity and bloodthirstiness. The scrpents, too, apparently dispute the ground inch by inch, and even invade houses in the most populous districts. Soldiers are constantly attacked in their canton-ments by the cobra di copella, the bite of which venomous reptile is almost certain to be fatal, although, according to Dr. Bueler, who has had wide experience, the poison may be successfully combated by alcohal if taken in when the rayages of these fearful pests are considered, as exemplified by the trustworthy accounts of Mr. Grant Duff and Capt. A Strange Case of Deception. Before the Greenwich Police Court London, the other day there was a masculine defendant who told and sub-stantiated snell n story of deception at the hands of the feminine complainant that many of his hearers must have found their supposable chivalrous pre-possessions greatly shaken thereby—a tall, military-looking man, an ex-soldier,

By pinching and scraping in all his younger years the former soldier had managed to save £700 of his own; but what was that in comparison to this Spunish fortune? He deemed himself the luckiest dog on earth, and went at ance into a golden shrery to whiteh mar-ringe, in February of the same year, added the linal fetter. Understanding, of course, that his bride's wealth was not yet in her hands, he freely used his own means in securing and furnishing a comely house in Yeaman terrace, Lawer road, Rotherhithe, and engaging two servants, Under ordinary circumstances would have struck him as strange it would have struck him as strange that he had not yet seen the lady's futh-er, thu, according to her statement, lived in England and did not oppose the wedding; but the whole affair was so extraordinary to his delighted innei-mation that this single oddity did not impress him much at lifet. Eighteen months of wedded life huppily passed, und, the husband's linamid resources nearly exhausted, his wife informed him that it would be necessary for her to visit Madrid with her father. To the lutter she had meanwhile written that she had married a rich aristocrat, too proud to wish to enlicate any of her clatives; so that even ut this advanced day husband and father had never met. Still misuspicious, however, the fend ex-goldier, new ic parent himself, ad-vanced his last £30 for the Spanish expedition, and was delighted to hearthat it was finally decided to take him, too.

llis wife proceeded to advance to where that relative was announced to meet her and telegraphed thence for him to join them; but when he had repaired to the place indicated another despatch informed him that the futher would not travel thither, and he was obliged to return to London alone. As he testified further before the Greenwich court, on retence, still, of the Spanish journey he farmiture in the fine house at Roth erhithe was subsequently removed thence by the lady's order to an alleged place of storage until the party should return to England: but instead of this t was really consigned by her secret directions to an nuction-room in Holborn and there sold imrriedly for her private benefit. The pown, a cabinet-puker, whose humerous name is Tabula Rasa, writes to the London Times, telling of how a poor working-mon sold him a table. The nown, a cabinet-maker, with a snow-white apron, brought the table to the gentleman's house, saying that he lived in the east of London, where times were so but that he was glad to carre his wares up to the west end and sell them in the streets. Tabula Rasa bought the article for two sovereigns, not because he needed it, but because not because he needed it, but because he would encourage honest industry. Then he felt virtuous. In a few days n erew came loose in the table and would not lite; but just then the poor cabinetindeer with the snowy opron came to the lunse and hoped the table stated; being shown the fault in it he was much distressed, and urged Tabula Rasura— not yet rasa—to let him take it home with him to set it to rights, adding that with him to set it or rights, according as he would gladly leave a sovereign as pledge of its return. JUST TAKEN HIS BITTERS. - We heard a seedy-looking individual with an alarmingly red nose remark to a brother soaker that he had "just tuken his hitters, but he did not mind taking another nip. His remark suggested a train of reflection. How was it, we asked ourselves, that the word "bitters" had grown to be a synonym for gin, whisky, rum, and other alcoholic stimulants, to which it was applied indiscriminately. Bitters, we rensoned, suggested the idea of n healthful tonic, not of n poisonous of n healthful tonie, not of n poisonous stimulant; something invigorating to the system, not an alcoholic irritant, full of fusel oil, producing present intuxication and ultimate insanity, idiocy, or premature death. Moreover, our idea of bitters was totally irreconcilable with "giu cocktails," "rum punches," and "brandy smashes," which, we are informed, are sweetened with sugar, and rendered doubly injurious with espaces colored by meuns of mineral and rendered doubly injurious with essences colored by means of mineral poison. This was bitter-sweet with a vengeance. We mentioned this problem to a friend. He solved it by oxelaiming: "Why, don't you know that most of these bitters advertised as remedies are only drains in disguise. Topers know it, if you do not. I must make one exception, however," he added, "and that's Dn. Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetalilo preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the uso of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of Vinegar Bitmparalleled success of VINEGAR BIT-TERS!" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient re-covers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, of the system. Never before in the bistory of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the repurkable qualities of VINEAA ILITERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a goule Purgative as well as a Tonic, religious (Congration of Lulammalion of relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilions
